Premature euphoria

The recent pronouncement made by the Supreme Court on the status of the most reviled and contested Act - The Armed Forces Special Powers Act. (AFSPA) once again raised hopes for millions of people, especially those who have been experiencing untold misery and excesses of the security forces under the garb of maintaining law and order. Hailing the apex court ruling as a landmark for justice to the violated people, many see the damning criticism of the Act as an underlining for the need to revoke it as it has become archaic and has lost its relevance in today's society. The Supreme Court have earlier asked the Manipur government how long the Army should be deployed in the state and enjoy unaccountable power under the Armed Forces Special Powers Act (AFSPA) and whether 35 years of the Army's presence had improved the law and order situation. All the euphoria, however should be reserved for now as despite the strong condemnation for the excesses of the security forces, the Supreme Court has, on many counts earlier, validated the imposition of the Act. The representation made by senior advocate V Giri at the court on behalf of the state government stated that the law and order situation in Manipur still dictates the need for continuing with the Act citing the mushrooming of armed insurgent groups in the state. For those of us who have sampled the brunt of the audacity of the Act, notions of equality, fundamental rights and the essence of democracy has been tainted with suspicion and uncertainty. The contention of the state government, however, falls flat as crimes and incidents related to insurgency in Imphal have reduced considerably since the Act was lifted from seven assembly constituencies within Imphal municipal area three years ago. That the imposition of AFSPA can hope to solve or maintain law and order has been proven wrong in an emphatic manner. That the mushrooming of armed insurgent groups have more to do with how the state government and its machinery are feeding and nurturing various anti-social elements who are feeding off the fear and uncertainty of the public, profiteering from the fear psychosis which have been so deeply ingrained in the minds of the people from the relentless experiences and witnesses of horrific and frightening incidents of violence, torture and deaths from uncomfortably close quarters for almost four decades and still counting. The atrocities, excessive and often unwarranted use of force need to stop. As long as the Act is in place, no amount of judicial remedy or legal punishment will ever hope to make up for, negate or curb the instincts of those who have been trained and prepped for action. Only the total absence of the Act will make the armed forces realize the vulnerability of their position and therefore necessitate the adoption of more conventional and people-friendly methods to maintain order, and in the process might even uncover ways to win the trust and cooperation of the public.

When I came to know that the richest nations like the united kingdom in the past in conquering the whole world and the united states in the present in dominating the whole globe plays dirty politics with other nations but not in their nation, why is it that Hindustan or India even though she is not rich in wealth like the united kingdom and the united states is sick playing the dirtiest politics in self racist and self ill-discriminating ways of inequality and conformity continuing for thousands and thousands of years till today producing the maximum number of poorest, uneducated and ignorant-pleasured people. The answer lies within her historical addiction in manipulation and pollution of cultures for separatist social identity that she became one of the richest culturally customised nation or a nation irrationally industrialised with cultural capitalism that cannot ever since be compared its richness in culture by overproduction by any other nations in the world that made her citizens possessed completely by the extreme pride in playing with

Pak expresses shock over killing of Hizbul commander Wani

PTI Islamabad, July 11: Pakistan has expressed shock over the killing of Hizbul Mujahideen commander Burhan Wani in an encounter in Kashmir and deplored "oppressive measures" and "excessive" force used against civilians in the latest wave of violence in the Valley. Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif, who has been under attack from the opposition for remaining "silent" over the killing of protesters in Kashmir, came out with a late night statement condemning the action of Indian security forces. "The Prime Minister of Pakistan has expressed his deep shock at the killing of Kashmiri leader Burhan Wani and many other civilians by the Indian military and paramilitary forces," Sharif's office said in the statement. The Prime Minister said it was "deplorable that excessive and unlawful force was used against the civilians" who were protesting against the killing of Wani. "Oppressive measures such as these cannot deter the valiant people of Jammu and Kashmir from their demand of exercising their right to self-determination in accordance with the UN Security Council resolutions," he said. Expressing concern over the detention of Kashmiri separatist leaders, Sharif said India should fulfil its human rights obligations as well as its commitments under the United Nations Security Council resolutions. The death toll in the clashes between protesters and security forces in Kashmir mounted to 23, as normal life remained paralysed for the third day today in the Valley due to curfew-like restrictions and separatists-sponsored strike in the wake of the killing of Wani in an encounter on Friday. Most of the separatist leaders, including Syed Ali Shah Geelani, Mirwaiz Umer Farooq and Mohammad Yasin Malik, are either in custody or under house arrest.

Pakistan People's Party (PPP) chairman Bilawal Bhutto Zardari has alleged that "Sharif-Modi friendship" was causing "irreparable damage" to the Kashmir issue. "While Muslims celebrated Eid-ul-Fitr across the world, our Kashmiri brethren marked the day of festivities amid violence carried out by the Indian army," Bilawal said in a statement yesterday. He accused Sharif of damaging the foreign policy by giving his Indian counterpart Narendra Modi a "certificate of friendship". "Sharif is jeopardising the Kashmir issue by building his association with the Indian prime minister," he said.
