In the Men's Hockey team, two more Manipuri lads Khadangbam Kothajit Singh (defender) and Kangujam Chinglensana Singh (midfielder) have been included. The women team is placed in Group B with Argentina, Australia, Great Britain, Japan and United States, while the men's team is also placed in Group B with Argentina, Canada, Germany, Ireland and Netherlands.

Directorate of Treasuries and Accounts initiating radical changes for efficient administration

IT News
Imphal, July 12: Directorate of Treasuries and Accounts has initiated "Compilation of FORMS of government of Manipur" commonly used by various departments under the state government. The compilation will facilitate better financial understandings, checks and balances in all the departments under the state government including Pension, National Pension Scheme, Terminal Benefit Rules, Electronic payment, DDO Code, GIS, HRA, SCA, CPIS/MGEL, Encashment Permission, Manipur FRBM, Manipur Public Servant's Persona Liability Act., GPF, Travelling Allowance, Medical reimbursement, Compassionate Appointment etc-stated the official of Directorate of Treasuries and Accounts while addressing media persons as part of the series of press conferences organised by DIPR today at its office complex. The official further stated that delay in pension after the retirement of an employee is due to the inability of the official of the department to decide which form/s should be filled so such problem will be removed with the completion and implementation of the project which will allow pensioners to avail their pension.

The official further said that the Department of Treasuries has now been fully computerised since the year 2005-2006 with the funding of 11th Finance Commission. Manipur is the only state in the North East where pension preparation is done by the treasuries while in other states it has been handed over to the bank. At present around 48,000 pensioners/family pensioners exist in the state. The official further said that all pension payment orders (PPOs) have been kept using locker system and also other records are kept using optimiser from January 2010 onward.

Mass Rally condemn blasts at Senapati DC office complex

IT News
Imphal, July 12: Locals of Senapati District today staged a mass rally condemning the bomb blast inside the Deputy Commissioner's office complex of Senapati, Manipur on Monday night. The mass rally began from around 9 am today morning from Senapati Mini Stadium and continued till Senapati District Council office complex. Later, more than 2000 locals took part at a public meeting organised at the Senapati Mini Stadium from where the mass rally was kicked off. It is known that the IED blast occurred at the ground floor inside the office room of the planning section of DC office main building where no one was injured except for some damage to the wall and windowpanes of the building. Meanwhile, NSCN (K) Shepoumarath Region has already claimed responsibility for the blast as the last warning to the Deputy Commissioner and her co-coordinating officers for not meeting their demand that had been neglected for so long against the Government who sacrificed their lives for the sacred cause of the Naga sovereignty.

Nagaland's "Lokayukta" Bill will not come into reality soon

NEPS
Kohima, July 12: The hope of getting "The Nagaland Lokayukta Bill, 2005" has been dashed after Levi Rengma, Parliamentary Secretary and Chairman of the Select Committee on the Bill has moved in the Assembly today for the extension of tenure of their "Select Committee" for another six months. The Select Committee has to present their Report within six months and table it in the Assembly. In fact, Governor PB Acharya was fumed at the delay of the passing of the Bill which, if passed, will check alleged rampant corruption, backdoor appointments in government departments and irregularities in implementation of schemes. Nagaland Chief Minister TR Zeliang introduced the Nagaland Lokayukta Bill 2015 in last year Assembly Session. The "Lokayukta" is an "Anti-Corruption authority" empowered to investigate into allegations of corruptions against public functionaries and related matters. It is a quasi-judicial body, which would act as a watchdog to pinpoint corrupt activities of the administration, look into complaints of the victims of corrupt elements and recommend measures to improve the efficiency of the Government. The people of Nagaland will not see their "Lokayukta" coming into reality so soon.

Meghalaya Police attempts to strike cord with civil societies for better policing

AN
Tura, July 12: Meghalaya police had yesterday made an attempt to strike a cord with civil societies and church organisations for better policing and reinstate confidence in the minds of the people. The interactive meeting led by DIG (Western Range) S.S. Kynjing laid its thrust on suggestions and corrective ways for enabling police - public relation. It was attended by prominent civil organisations like Garo Students Union (GSU), Association for Democracy and Empowerment (ADE), among others. At the meeting different issues were discussed including the new "no parking zone" in Tura town, which has posed several challenges to the public. In absence of adequate parking space in prominent market places like - Ringrey, Hawakhana and Araimile, the NGOs suggested that a regulated timetable in managed to ease the problem. They also suggested creation of new parking space. Apart from day to day problems confronting the citizens, the NGOs sought attention on speedy release of rehabilitation package for surrendered cadres of different outfits including those of the disband militant outfits. In the meeting, Kynjing sought for people, religious leaders and social organizations to play a proactive role in taking Garo hills forward on the path to peace and development. Superintendent of police West Garo Hills Mukesh Singh said that interaction with various stakeholders was important to create a bonding between police and civil societies.

PM Modi, are you pakka Indian?

By : Bupenda Ningombam
EAM Sushma Swaraj has apologised for an act whose control is not under her ministry while PM Modi and the minister concerned, Home Minister Rajnath, are maintaining a stoic silence. Under which IPC, a criminal offence case can be filed for racism committed against a non - ST indigenous people, having Mongoloid features, of the North East India? If he or she belongs to ST/SC, then there is an act to safeguard ST/SC but for OBCs or Unreserved category of indigenous people of the North East India, there is no law, as yet, in India to protect and safeguard OBCs/UR people of the North East India from racism? So, how can a racial act be said to have been committed in a court of law when there is nothing in IPC to book a criminal under anti

- racial act of India? When will Parliament enact an anti - racial act of India? I can also make a mockery of PM Modi asking him, "PM Modi, you look like a Pakistani. Are you a pakka Indian? Do you know all the capitals of the North East India if you are an Indian?" in front of a public gathering. The point is, PM Modi may charge me that I have racially discriminated him. But, under which IPC, can PM Modi file a criminal case against me and lodge an FIR in a nearest police station against me? The legal point is: PM Modi is neither ST nor SC, he is in OBC. Can an OBC PM Modi file a racial attack case against anyone who is perceived and considered to have committed an act of racial attack on him in India? Will PM Modi be contended if I tender my apology for my Pakistani remark against him?

Nagaland Legislative Assembly: No Opposition, no sound

By: Oken Jeet Sandham
Kohima : TR Zeliang's historic winning of the "Vote of Confidence" of his Government has completed almost one-and-half years. He moved the "Confidence Motion" of his Government when 22 NPF dissident legislators led by G Kaito Aye threw an unprecedented challenge to his leadership in the NPF legislature party. The NPF had 38 legislators then and after 22 legislators challenging his leadership, he was sent into a complete defenselessness. But he survived the first political storm because NPF President Dr. Shurhozelie had swiftly placed seven of them including Aye under suspension. Soon, the beleaguered DAN Chief Minister turned the game of the NPF legislature leadership crisis into DAN Government crisis. The dissident NPF legislators criticized the move saying that they only challenged his leadership in the NPF legislature party. Interestingly, the dissident NPF legislators along with State's two MPs had even paraded in front of Governor, PB Acharya, in Kohima Raj Bhavan. Unfortunately, the State Government was kept in suspense for about a month as almost all the institutions in the State were completely paralyzed following two groups - one led by Zeliang and the other by Aye - camping at de Oriental Hotel, Kohima and at Sovima, 7th Mile, Dimapur respectively. The worse sufferers were the common men. Acharya was finding difficulty as he could not interfere in a political party crisis while on the other, Zeliang managed to exhibit that all the legislators including eight Opposition Congress legislators in the State except that 22 dissident NPF legislators were on his side. And with all these unprecedented strange bedfellows, he was trying to shift his political battle from the NPF turf to the Assembly by smartly working on to move a "Confidence Motion" of his seven-month-old Government. On 9 January 2015, Zeliang met Acharya with a proposal for the summoning of a Special Session of Nagaland Legislative Assembly for a "Confidence Motion" of his seven-month-old Government. Since no reply was forthcoming from the Governor, he had a "Cabinet Meeting" on 15 January 2015 and forwarded a recommendation for summoning a Special Session of Nagaland Legislative Assembly for a "Trial of Strength" of his government on 20 January 2015. This recommendation had literally sealed the Governor from seeking another route to delay his action. He (Governor) finally summoned a "Special Session" of Nagaland Legislative Assembly on February 5, 2015, for a "Trial of Strength" of Zeliang Ministry in Nagaland. But this writer told Zeliang prior to the "Trial of Strength" of his Ministry that the dissident NPF legislators would never vote against it (Confidence Motion). (Contd. on page 2)
