Hearing on petition filed against wanted tag on Ratan deferred

IT News
Imphal, July 19: The hearing of the petition filed by former JCILPS Convenor Kh Ratan challenging the 'Wanted' tag on him has been deferred to another bench as the Division bench of Chief Justice RR Prasad and Justice S Serto had denied plea by the Advocate General to proceed criminal contempt against state media which carries news report of yesterday's proceeding terming it as "scandalous" report.
 The hearing which was scheduled today was strongly objected from further continuation by the Advocate general as he pleaded the division bench to accept criminal contempt to the media which carried the report yesterday before the hearing of the case filed by Kh Ratan continues.
 Petitioner's counsels Sr Advocate Khaidem Mani, Sr Advocate I Lalit and advocate Rakesh Meihoubam pleaded the division bench to proceed the hearing as the matter related to the press can be taken up aside, however, the Advocate general strongly argued as the media report had the tendency to influence the judgment.
 Later after hearing the argument, the division bench deferred the hearing to another bench.
 Petitioner's counsel Advocate Khaidem Mani, while speaking to Imphal Times said that the hearing might be scheduled at another bench in the coming days. He however could not spell the date as the matter is yet to be fixed.

Petitioner's counsels Advocate I Lalit and advocate Rakesh Meihoubam, had yesterday argued that no proper procedures under section 82 of CrPC were followed while proclaiming offender to Kh Ratan and that the Wanted status was announced by the police PRO through a press note in contravention of formal procedure. Replying to the argument, the respondents represented by Advocate General Thokchom Ibohah and Addl Advocate General Namoijam Ibotombi contended that the police can proclaim an individual as Wanted under CrPC 157 citing various instances from the state and outside.

Cable TV digitisation workshop for nodal officers held

DIPR
Imphal, July 20: Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Government of India has organised Cable TV Digitization Workshop for nodal officers of North Eastern States today at Hotel Classic Grande at Chingmeirong Imphal.
 On the occasion, Yogendra Pal, Advisor Ministry of Information and Broadcasting said that during the workshop of the nodal officers especially from North Eastern regions, discussions will be on the various provisions of the Cable Television Network Act, if somebody violates the Act the actions that suppose to be taken up, if somebody runs unauthorised channels what actions can be taken up, who are authorised persons etc.

Cable TV Digitization has many positive sides. Digitization enables efficient utilization of the spectrum bandwidth available on the cable and thereby drastically enhances the capacity to carry channels on cable. It gives choice to consumers. It brings in transparency as the signals of the cable operator are encrypted and can be received only through a set top box after due authorization from the service provider, he added. Though the workshop was organised for the nodal officers of North Eastern States, it was mainly attended by the nodal officers from Manipur and Nagaland. It is worth to mention that the Ministry has laid down the schedules for digitization of the Cable TV Networks in India in four phases. The deadline for Phase I was 31st October 2012, the II phase was 31st March 2013, the III phase was 31st December 2015 and the IV phase will go till 31st December 2016. Manipur belong to the IV phase.
