Newly constructed shopping complex at Thoubal on verge of collapse

IT News
Imphal, June 24: The double-storied shopping complex at Thoubal Wangmataba Bazar which was just recently inaugurated has tilted precariously and in eminent danger of collapsing anyday now. The concrete structure of about 30 shops constructed by Simplex Company based in Kolkata under the state Public Works Department (PWD) has started to tilt towards Thoubal River with the bank already crumbling. While construction started in the early part of 2013, the structure was handed to the shopkeepers only this year. Thoubal Municipal Corporation (TMC) had issued an official warning to the shop-owners to clear their wares from the building and have cordoned off the place as a preventive measure. Meanwhile, a reliable source disclosed that the construction of the structure was taken over by a group of influential and well-connected contractors from Thoubal after Simplex was chased out of the project. It was also revealed that the Municipal Councillors surreptitiously provided allotment for the building plot for financial considerations ranging from 5 to 15 lakh rupees while there is doubt regarding the approval of Central Ministry of Environment which is required as part of the structure is reclaimed from the river. The source also disclosed that the construction was completed without revealing the real source of control behind the activities thereby projecting the impression to the public that the project was carried out by Simplex till completion.

JCILPS supporters detain non-locals transported in passenger bus in NH-2

IT News
Imphal, June 24: Large number of womenfolk enforcing bandh called by JAC formed against the announcement of Kh Ratan as wanted today detained around 50 non-locals transported towards Imphal in a Guwahati - Imphal bound passenger bus at around 11 am at Phaidinga along NH-2. The bandh supporters alleged that those non-locals were entering the state without any proper valid documents. They were reportedly brought by another non-local who have valid documents promising them jobs, a strike supporter told media persons.

The womenfolk also detained the bus as they could not decide on what action could be taken to the non-locals. A woman representative while talking to newperson stated that JCILPS office has been informed about the detention of the non-locals and they are waiting for their arrival.

Protest rally staged against authority's failure to arrest culprits behind the killing of E Kanon Devi

IT News
Imphal, June 24: JAC formed against the suspicious death of Elangbam Kanon Devi today staged rally at Khangabok Part - 2 area demanding arrest of the culprits involved in the killing of the lady. Elangbam Kanon Devi aged about 21 years was found dead in a suspicious manner on June 19 at Thoubal canal around some 100 meters away from Thoubal Police Station. The girl reported to be mentally unsound was reported missing since June 11 and a missing report has been lodged to Thoubal Police Station on June 13. As the condition that the dead body was found suggested illicit activities being taken place, the JAC urged the police to arrest those involved to the death of the girl. The JAC formed against the death of the girl blocked road on June 20, but police foiled the bandh and the Highway was open as JAC members agreed to talk about the matter with the Chief Minister of Manipur. During a meeting with the JAC representatives the Chief Minister assured to arrest the culprits within 3 days and following that the dead body was accepted. But as no action is being taken up to arrest the culprits, the JAC resume its protest and staged a rally at Khangabok Part-2. Placards denouncing the dead as well as the police inaction were used during the protest.

NISC urges Myanmar government to initiate dialogue with Naga

IT News
Imphal, June 24: In an open letter forwarded media houses, Naga International Support Center (NISC) has urged the Government of Myanmar to initiate peace talk with the Nagas in their country. It said as the Nagas in India are close to coming to a solution to the deep rooted conflict and will have a kind of Shared Sovereignty but with their own Naga passports the NISC appealed the Myanmar Govt to take the request of the Nagas in Myanmar seriously as the country has signed the UN covenant for peoples who have the right to self determination. "Since 1954 Nagas of India have been fighting for Independence and to this day around 200,000 soldiers of the Indian Army are present in the lands of the Nagas. Nagas were politically separated by the border between India and then Burma but also in India divided administratively by four states. One of the main important issues there, as well as for the Nagas in Myanmar, is reunification. Because the border was arbitrarily agreed upon, it literally runs through houses in villages, Nagas want it removed and so East and West Nagaland to be reunited". NISC said that for Nagas it is essential to be reunited but two-third of their land is in India, one third (Sagaing Region) is in Myanmar. NISC knows the Nagas self-administered area but also we know that some areas are excluded. Consequently NISC asks you to include all ancestral lands of the Nagas. The open letter also stated that that Nagas inhabiting at various part of Myanmar were never part of the Union of Burma. Lauding the initiative to hold the second Panglong conference, NISC said that it is high time the Indigenous Peoples of Myanmar are recognized for their right to self determination, a right laid down in the covenant of the United Nations and signed by Myanmar. The first Panglong Conference was held in February 1947 at Panglong in the Shan States in Burma between the Shan, Kachin and Chin ethnic minority leaders and Aung San, head of the interim Burmese government. The Nagas did not attend the conference. It alleged the Myanmar government for force conversion of Nagas to Buddhism and those convert are given more privilege. NISC said the Panglong Conference could be a great initiative to bring the Indigenous Peoples of Myanmar together to make them feel at home and appreciated. "Still there are some peoples who do not wish to be part of Myanmar and after deliberations of the why and how should be left alone to govern themselves. Though this is already bad enough, NISC feels there is much more regarding the Naga Peoples of Sagaing Region", the statement added. NISC also asked the Governments of the United Kingdom and India to show proof of the transfer so that unequivocally India can state it has the right to call Western Nagaland India. Likewise NISC would like to see the papers of India, signed by the first Prime Minister of India Jawaharlal Nehru and Prime Minister U Nu to that effect. NISC further cautions Myanmar government not to make the Naga issue as a roadblock to the relationships between India and Myanmar under the India's Look East Policy.
