Imphal, Sept. 14: Rmed rebel group Maoist Communist Party Manipur today question the state government over its silence to the setting of unofficial designated camp by anti social communal force in the state of Manipur.

In a press statement the Maoist said that the one time Congress MLA, now joined to BJP, Surchandra himself had stated that there are offices and camps openly set up in the soil of the state by the said communal force. Now the government is nearly 6 month. For a government which is mandated to rule for 5 years 6 months is a long period and silence over the issue which might disintegrate the state of Manipur is unfortunate.

The Manipur Maoist also expressed serious concerns over the present government failure to rectify its promises made before the election.

"In this six months no change has been made", the statement said.

Six month is a long period and till now the complaints at many schools about feeling of vacant teachers and other infrastructures had not been listened.

At the labour department too, even unmarried young girls are provided labour cards.

In this six month except changes of departmental head nothing worthy has been seen taken up by the government headed by the BJP, the statement added.

On the other hand the Manipur Maoist also questioned the credibility of the JCLIPS while pushing its issue. It says why the committee remain quiet after organising a rally on September 4. Where have the announcement for intensification of the movement gone?, the Manipur Maoist asked.

The rebel group also demanded immediate revelation of all the unofficial designated camps of the anti social communal force which has been committing various crimes in the region. It said the way the communal force are committing crimes to the people of the state had enraged many people and this could result an outburst of serious crisis. The Maoist communist party Manipur said that it is ready to counter those attempting to disperse the state and also warn the state government to reveal the unofficial designated camp of the anti social communal force which are engineering to distort the integrity of the state.

Roadside bomb blasts kill one soldier, injure 20 people in Thailand

Bangkok, Sept 14: One soldier was killed and 20 people were injured, most of them soldiers and police, in roadside bomb blasts in southern Thailand.

Security forces said the blasts occurred today in Yala, one of the predominantly ethnic, Malay Muslim provinces. Security forces said the first bomb did not result in any casualties, but the other two killed one soldier and wounded 18 soldiers and police and two villagers.

Spokesman for regional security forces, Pramote Prom-in said it is believed to be the work of Muslim insurgents in the area, where a separatist insurgency has dragged on for decades.

The insurgents are fighting for secession from mostly Buddhist Thailand. Until they were annexed in 1909, Thailand's three southernmost provinces of Pattani, Yala and Narathiwat were part of an independent Malay Muslim sultanate.

AFP

Dhaka, Sept 14: Thousands of Rohingya Muslim refugees who fled violence in Myanmar in search of refuge could be forced to make their new homes on a barren Bangladeshi island that floods every year. The Bangladesh government has appealed for international support to move the Rohingya to the island as the impoverished country confronts a growing crisis over where to house an influx that has mounted following a military crackdown in Buddhist-dominated Myanmar's Rakhine state. More than 300,000 Rohingya have poured into Bangladesh since the latest flare-up in violence on August 25, adding to around 300,000 refugees already living in overflowing UN-run camps in Cox's Bazar district, close to the border with Myanmar. The surge has overwhelmed the Bangladesh authorities, who are scrambling to find land to build more camps, including on the inhospitable and uninhabited Thengar Char island — recently renamed Bhasan Char — despite reluctance on the part of Rohingya leaders and UN officials. Bhasan Char, located in the estuary of the Meghna river, is a one-hour boat ride from Sandwip, the nearest inhabited island, and two hours from Hatiya, one of Bangladesh's largest islands. The authorities first proposed settling Rohingya refugees there in 2015, as the camps in Cox's Bazar became overstretched with new arrivals.

But the plan was apparently shelved last year amid reports that the silt island, which only emerged from the sea in 2006, was uninhabitable due to regular tidal flooding.

The government is trying to find new room for the Rohingya, including establishing a new 2,000-acre (800-hectare) camp near Cox's Bazar, close to the Myanmar border, which will house around 250,000 Rohingya.

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina was to visit the construction site on Tuesday.

As the exodus swells however, there are fears that may not be enough to accommodate all those in need of shelter.

As a result, the Bangladesh government is speeding up work at Bhasan Char with a view to building a 10,000-acre facility that can house hundreds of thousands of Rohingya. But they face huge challenges.

A police official in the region told AFP that the island, which is used sporadically by fishermen and farmers seeking to graze their animals, was susceptible to tidal flooding once or twice a year. "I think the island needs... massive infrastructure before it gets habitable," the official said.

The presence of the Bangladesh Navy, which is involved in developing the island, has deterred pirates who used to operate in the seas around Bhasan Char.
