Oxfam India launches emergency response in flood affected states of North-East region

By-Himanshi Matta
Guwahati, June 19,

Following a rapid assessment in the four flood and landslide affected states of North East—Oxfam India has launched its emergency response in Assam, Manipur and Tripura. Oxfam India will soon launch its humanitarian response in Mizoram. According to government sources, over 0.6 million people are affected in the four flood hit states. Karimganj and Hailakandi are the worst affected districts in Assam. While all eight districts of Tripura are reeling under floods—Unakoti is the worst hit. Imphal East, Imphal West, Thoubal and Bishnupur in Manipur and Kolasib, Mamit and Lunglei in Mizoram are other worst hit areas.

Oxfam India has already launched its response in Karimganj in Assam, Unakoti district in Tripura, Imphal East and Thoubal in Manipur.

Oxfam India with its partners will provide immediate humanitarian relief and also support resilience building measures to help the flood affected communities rebuild their lives.

"We are providing clean water, building toilets, distributing emergency food, medicines and creating temporary shelter in the affected areas. We will focus on building the resilience of the most vulnerable communities to the recurring floods in these areas. We need to ensure that communities are not displaced, children are not forced to stay out of school, women are not compelled to choose between a sanitary pad and food for their families, and the marginalized are not further pushed into poverty," said Oxfam India Chief Executive Officer Amitabh Behar. During the last four years, Oxfam India has responded to more than 35 humanitarian disasters across the country and directly provided relief to nearly 1.2 million people. Last year, Oxfam India reached out to over 19200 most vulnerable households across five states—Assam, Manipur, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat.

Oxfam India's response is guided by the needs of the most vulnerable communities in the flood affected areas. "Our interventions are tuned to address the special needs of the most vulnerable sections of the community including women, adolescent girls, children, elderly and differently abled people. We are driven by the objectives of saving lives and livelihoods of the flood affected people and enable them to build their own resilience to face future disasters," said Oxfam India Humanitarian Lead Andrijo Naskar.

Oxfam India is undertaking an assessment and will launch its response soon in Hailakandi district of Assam and Kolasib, Mamit and Lunglei districts of Mizoram.

The State Governments have set up around 500 relief camps. Oxfam India seeks to reach around 16000 most vulnerable households in the flood affected states.

Rahul Gandhi Ends Silence On Delhi Deadlock, Targets PM, Arvind Kejriwal

Agency
New Delhi, June 19,

Congress chief Rahul Gandhi broke his silence today about Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal's sit-in protest and the resulting impasse in Delhi. While the main target was Prime Minister Narendra Modi, his party and the Chief Minister both were mentioned as ingredients in what he called "anarchy". Even the bureaucrats, who made their grievances public at a rare press conference on Sunday, got a mention in the tweet.

This is the first time Mr Gandhi has referred to the week-long protest by the Delhi Chief Minister at the house of Lieutenant Governor Anil Bajjal. The leaders of the party — which got wiped out by AAP in the 2015 assembly elections after three terms in power — have heaped criticism on Mr Kejriwal. The list of detractors not only includes state party chief Ajay Maken but also former Chief Minister Sheila Dikshit.

AAP attacked the Congress president. The party's lawmaker Sanjay Singh said Mr Gandhi was speaking the "language of BJP" and challenged him to ask his Delhi unit's leaders to go on hunger strike for even two days.

AAP leader Saurabh Bharadwaj said instead of listening to Congress state unit chief Ajay Maken, Mr Gandhi should talk to his elected Puducherry chief minister.

The stance of the Congress has placed it far apart from the other opposition parties when efforts are on to build a common front to oust the BJP from power in next year's general elections. Most opposition parties, and even BJP allies Shiv Sena and Nitish Kumar's Janata Dal United, have rallied behind Mr Kejriwal.

The matter has seen longtime rivals like Mamata Banerjee and the CPM on the same side. While Ms Banerjee, along with three other Chief Ministers, appealed to PM Modi yesterday to intervene in the issue, CPM cadres took part in yesterday's AAP protest and its senior leader Sitarum Yechury accused the government of undermining the principles of federalism.

The Congress chief minister of Puducherry, V Narayanasamy, who has similar complaints against Lieutenant Governor Kiran Bedi, also sounded positive about the protest.

The Aam Aadmi Party — which has accused PM Modi of exacting vengeance against it for losing in the 2015 assembly elections — has accused the Congress of being the "B Team" of the BJP.

Mr Kejriwal — who started his protest on the evening of June 11 — has accused Lieutenant Governor Anil Bajjal and the Centre of backing the IAS officers, who, he says, have been on strike since February. He has also started a campaign demanding full statehood for Delhi, which would give its elected government control over some crucial issues, including land and police.
