Are media Houses in Assam glorifying terror activities?

By Our Correspondent
Guwahati, March 14,

Sympathetic to the cause of community but soon turned out to be a vivid supporter of insurgency- that is how few Assam media outlets can be described and the trend continued for decades. However everything has not gone well for the Guwahati based media groups as the matter is brought to the notice of Prime Minister's Office in New Delhi, which has reciprocated with official communiques for necessary actions.

"With utmost concern and sadness I wrote the letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi describing suspicious behaviour of few print and electronic media outlets of Assam. They seem to be pursuing a mission to derail the sincere initiative by the Centre for all round developments of northeast India in general and Assam in particular," said Biswajit Nath, a Guwahati based concerned citizen. The letter dated 26 November 2018 asserted that a section of Assam media used to glorify the act of insurgents during 1985 to 1992, when the State was put in turmoil by the banned United Liberation Front of Assam (ULFA).

Picture for representation only

As the militancy erupted two major anti-insurgency operations namely Operation Bajrang and Operation Rhino (between November 1990 and May 1992) were launched. "That was the darkest chapter of Assam's long cherished history when our very own boys (also girls) with guns on their hands started killing own people for logics best known to them only. We the Assamese people had to suffer most from both the State and non-State actors as the counter insurgency operations launched. Thousands got killed, many women were raped, families ruined during those black days," added the letter. Slowly the region has marched for peace and developments, but Biswajit pointed out that few journalists and intellectuals of Assam maintained their ill- designs against the country where common people have to suffer but those conspirators continue successfully camouflaging themselves. Their strategy remains the same as to instigate the local sentiments and take advantage of the situation. Biswajit disclosed an example of motivated news contents spread by Guwahati based satellite news channel 'Pratidin Time' and daily newspaper 'Asomiya Pratidin' last year when the regional channel aired a prime time interview with Paresh Barua (a face of terror, who leads ULFA-Independent) on 20

November. Next morning the interview was seen printed on the front page of the highest circulated Assamese daily. "This is in clear violation of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act 1967, section 39 of which describes the offence relating to supports given to a terrorist organization, where the term support is not restricted to provide only money or other property but also instigating the terror outfit for further disruptive activities," asserted Biswajit adding that soon a well-orchestrated media hype was created and few other news channels namely NewsLive, DY365 and PragNews followed it (interviewing the fugitive militant leader from an undisclosed location). Meanwhile, the Union government in a letter (dated New Delhi 22 February 2019) to the commissioner & secretary (Home and Political) of Assam government (also copied to Biswajit) directed to take appropriate actions over the matter. Biswajit, who also lodged an FIR at Basistha police station in the city over the same matter, now keeps waiting for some meaningful measures from the concerned authorities.

China Defends Stand on Masood Azhar Amid Global Outrage, Says Needs More Time for In-depth Probe

Agency
New Delhi, March 14,

In its first official statement after facing global ire for blocking the UNSC move against Masood Azhar, China said it needs more time to conduct a "thorough, in-depth investigation on the matter of listing Jaish-e-Mohammad chief Masood Azhar as a global terrorist".

The proposal to designate Azhar under the 1267 Al Qaeda Sanctions Committee of the UN Security Council was moved by France, the UK and the US on February 27, days after a suicide bomber of the Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM) killed 40 CRPF soldiers in Jammu and Kashmir's Pulwama, leading to a flare-up in tensions between India and Pakistan. The Al Qaeda Sanctions Committee members had 10 working days to raise any objections to the proposal. Just before the deadline ended, China put a "technical hold" on the proposal seeking "more time to examine" it.

The proposal was the fourth such bid at the UN in the last 10 years to list Azhar as a global terrorist. Asked why China once again resorted to block the move, Foreign Ministry spokesman Lu Kang told a media briefing here that Beijing's decision is in line with the rules of the committee. "China sincerely hopes that relevant action taken by this committee will help relevant countries to engage in dialogue and consultation and prevent adding more complicated factors into regional peace and stability," he said.

"As to the technical hold at the 1267 Committee, our action is to make sure that the committee will have enough time to study the matter so that the relevant sides will have time for dialogue and consultation," Lu said. "Only a solution that is acceptable to all sides could fundamentally provide a chance for a lasting solution to the issue. China is ready to communicate and coordinate with all sides including India to properly handle this issue," he said.

India has expressed disappointment over China's move but said it will "pursue all available avenues" to bring to justice terrorist leaders involved in the attack on Indians. To another question on the Wuhan summit between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping last year to improve the bilateral relations, Lu said, "Xi and Modi met four times. Particularly Wuhan summit made great progress. China is full of sincerity and ready to work with India to build on the consensus of our leaders for greater progress in the bilateral relations."

On the Kashmir issue, Lu said China's position on it is clear and consistent. "This is an issue that is left over between India and Pakistan. We hope that the two sides will engage in friendly dialogue consultation and solve this issue and other related issues," he said.

Several American think-tank members slammed China for its decision delaying the Azhar listing. "Today, China doubled down on a very bad bet. It blocked yet another round of UN sanctions on Pakistan-based JeM chief Masood Azhar weeks after the group claimed credit for the deadliest terrorist attack in Kashmir," Jeff Smith from the Heritage Foundation said.

"This one won't be undone by another romantic stroll through Wuhan," he added, indicating that such a move by Beijing would only escalate the tension between India and China.

The issue also turned into a political slugfest, with Congress chief Rahul Gandhi accusing Prime Minister Narendra Modi of going soft on China. Gandhi said a "weak" Modi was scared of Xi Jinping and "not a word comes out of his mouth when China acts against India". Reacting to the charges, the BJP asked how Congress could still speak a different tone even in case of a cruel killer and global terrorist like Azhar. Adding that he needed to learn that foreign policy was not run on Twitter, Prasad said Gandhi must look at his party's history vis-à-vis China.
