Voting to elect 17th Lok Sabha has concluded successfully. Overall around 70 per cent polling was recorded in seven phases that were held to elect the lower house of Parliament. Briefing media in New Delhi last evening, Deputy Election Commissioner Umesh Sinha said, polling was by and large peaceful barring some incidents of violence. He said this year's general elections were more peaceful as compared to the 2014 edition. Mr Singh said, people, including women and senior citizens, came out in large numbers to exercise their franchise. With the completion of the polling, the fate of 8,049 candidates, in fray for 542 Lok Sabha seats, has been sealed. In Gujarat, the fate of 371 candidates will be decided this time. Of these, 27 candidates are women, while one is from the third gender. The ruling BJP and opposition Congress contested all 26 seats in the state but the representation of women candidates in the state is still very low. Here is a report: Voting for the seventh and final phase was held yesterday. Around 65 per cent electorate cast their votes in 59 constituencies, that went to polls in this phase in seven states and one union territory. According to the Election Commission, highest 76 per cent polling was recorded in West Bengal, followed by 75 per cent in Madhya Pradesh, 72 in Himachal Pradesh and 71 in Jharkhand. While Punjab recorded a poll percentage of 66, it was 63 in Chandigarh, 58 per cent in Uttar Pradesh and lowest 53 per cent in Bihar. Repolling at a booth in the Chandni Chowk parliamentary constituency of Delhi was also held yesterday. By-polls to four Assembly seats each in Tamil Nadu and West Bengal; two Assembly segments in Karnataka; and one Assembly constituency in Goa also took place. Counting of votes for the Lok Sabha and four state assemblies of Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Arunachal Pradesh and Sikkim will be taken up on Thursday. The Meghalaya State Election Commission is fully geared up to ensure that the counting is carried smoothly. Our correspondent has filed this report: The News Services Division of All India Radio has made elaborate arrangements for providing authentic and latest results.
