development. But in the last five years, the Double Engine Sarkar of BJP has made sincere efforts for the development of Manipur."

The Congress party could never understand the feelings of the people of the North East, the problems of the people here." PM Modi also iterated the problems of ration the people of Manipur faced before 2017. He said, "Even in this crisis of Corona, the BJP government is ensuring free ration to 22 lakh people of Manipur. That is, out of every 10 people in Manipur, there are 7 people who are getting the benefit of the free ration facility." PM

PM Modi made people aware of the various schemes that the BJP government is implementing to develop Manipur holistically. PM Modi said, "The farmers of Manipur will benefit from the Mission Oil Palm started by our government. BJP is promoting bamboo farmers, the bamboo industry and the MSMEs here. It is our government that changed the rules pertaining to bamboo."

PM Modi finally addressed that for the development to continue, the people of Manipur should not let the previous government of 'Bandhs' and Blockades come into power. PM Modi also reiterated his connection with the people of Manipur by making people aware that the PM has been visiting Manipur throughout his life. He also said that he has visited Manipur more than all Prime Ministers of the country combined due to his dedication towards the people of Manipur.

Congress ruled and ruined the country: Th. Biswajit

IT News
Imphal, Feb 22:

Manipur Cabinet Minister Th. Biswajit Singh said the Bharatiya Janta Party always strives for the people's development and welfare, stressing the party has brought peace and development since it came to power for the first time in Manipur in 2017, while Congress ruined Manipur and the country.

Addressing a gathering before the arrival of PM Narendra Modi at Luwangshangbam for a BJP's mega public meeting, the Works Minister said: "Congress had been in power for many decades in the country and Manipur. Therefore, I want to say: Congress ruined the country and our state, Manipur. They only leave bandh and blockades and made our state a killing field."

Biswajit also reminded the masses of the untoward incidents that Manipur faced during the people's demand for the Inner Line Permit system in Manipur.

"The people of the state had suffered a lot. Many people lost their lives, and many others had to live with a disability during the ILP demand protest in Manipur. However, it was the Bharatiya Janta Party government that had fulfilled the people's long-cherished demand of ILP."

Biswajit went on to attack the Congress party, alleging that they did not work for the welfare of the people and made the public suffer for many years. But the BJP, Biswajit stressed, has fulfilled the most promises made before the 2017 election.

"The Bharatiya Janta Party leaders had promised ahead of the 2017 election that Manipur will be free of band and blockades. And this first promises made to the people was fulfilled soon," he said.

The State Cabinet Minister highlighted that the most significant achievement the BJP has achieved is bridging the hill-valley gap and bolstering the amicable relation among people from different communities dwelling in the state.

Maintaining that the BJP government has brought inclusive development following in the footsteps of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Biswajit said: "The BJP-led government in Manipur, adhering to Hon'ble Prime Minister's mantra 'Sabka Sath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Prayas,' has made a tremendous transformation across the state and managed to achieve remarkable goals."

For the 60 seats Manipur Assembly, the election is scheduled for February 28 and March 5. The results will be declared on March 10.

Can e-Commerce really impact traditional shops?

Talking Points

Narvijay Yadav

In the next ten years, e-commerce will grow substantially and online players like Facebook and YouTube will enter the e-commerce space to compete with the giants like Amazon. Globally over 60% physical stores will close and those that survive will be experience centres. Most large shopping centres will close. It was tweeted by Harsh Goenka, Chairman, RPG Enterprises, who enjoys a huge fan following on social media. Hundreds of twitter users reacted to the shocking futuristic statement made by one of the top businessmen of India. However, most of the users were against the idea of closing down brick and mortar stores, as the traditional stores provide jobs to millions of people. One user, Utsav Verma supported the statement by saying that you can get all the variety on Amazon, which you cannot get at a shop. It's a pain to go to the market, find parking, and browse through unmanaged shelves. "Still, there will be things which I would like to touch, feel and try before buying," he opined.

Another user, Mohit Gupta did not agree and said, "Technological development is an ongoing process. Traditional stores will evolve as the years pass. Nothing goes dead as new technologies come in to help. Logistics and time for delivery will always ensure the presence of physical stores." Arunava Sanyal also had similar feelings. He replied, "With the arrival of online editions, we all expected the books and newspapers to vanish, which did not happen. Many people enjoy the 'touch and feel' part of shopping, which will endure. I expect both online and physical stores to survive." One user, Kushagra said, "I do not foresee brick and mortar stores going out of fashion anytime soon. E-commerce is surely convenient, but shopping is more about the experience rather than just convenience." No doubt, e-commerce will gain weight in India too and many of the pop and mom shops may suffer if they do not change with the time. However, those stores would definitely survive or rather flourish, which will keep evolving and adopt new technologies.

According to Italian consultancy Finaria, global e-commerce retail sales may reach more than 4 trillion dollars in 2025. Physical stores must consider this and aspire to take their business online. If they don't opt for online presence, they will lose tech-savvy customers, who look for a simple, quick and convenient purchase comfortably from anywhere. That day is not far away, when delivery drones will be put on the task by the e-commerce companies. Still, experts opine that offline shops and online retail stores must be connected and should complement each other. That will ensure a perfect consumer experience. Having all sorts of payment options will also be a decisive factor in buying. Virtual stores, mobile or m-commerce, chatbots and artificial intelligence will also play a significant role in the future shopping trends. The desire for instant access and fast turnaround, 24/7 availability, will be the norm in coming years, driven in particular by millennials (born during 1980-95) and also by Gen Z consumers (born during 1996-2010). The later generation is more digitally active, hence they would prefer an online ecosystem for shopping.

Respect for the women – Hypocrisy must go

Multiplicity is what the fabric that a society is woven into. Variety gives it the essential beauty and makes it adorable. India has its strength in encompassing such diversities into its fold irrespective of their source and sociability. This has been the idea that we, as a nation, believed and followed. Societies, mostly patriarchal in nature across the globe, positioned themselves above the essential femininity and setting a hierarchy confining and conveniently forcing it to confess to what the patriarchy dictates. To some extent India is not different. Putting a veil around what the patriarchy believed as a safe and standard custom for the women, in a society of rigid phraseologies, we become advocates of women's rights. Lustrous vocabularies such as women rights, religious freedom, liberty and equality would decorate our debates. Lamentations on women rights will be aired to houseful audiences by channels, with no deliberations arguing on what, if someone wants to unveil themselves from the suffocating and incarcerating attire imposed on them by the same patriarchy. So, the convenience of the mighty gender is running the show. Everything can be justified and suppressed to the level of its satisfaction. Young girls choosing hijab over education in the recent tussle in Karnataka reveals this superimposed hand of an invincible patriarchy. No wonder, it can't work otherwise. The discourse is about constitutional rights being forcefully trodden to dust by a constitutional establishment, the government. The constitution, being indiscriminate on religious rights, equally blessed everybody with freedom to express and prosper. Therefore, someone's right to choose between what is professed in religion comes under religious freedom and apparently unquestionable. Attempts to question such practices should definitely be addressed inside the boundaries of the constitutional values. Going beyond it definitely invites unpleasant repercussions.

Do religions, to what a large number of cohorts are submissive to, give them the freedom to take a breath of personal liberty, without being oppressed and persecuted by the mighty dominance of the masculine? An answer to this question will be the most unpleasant in today's tensed atmosphere. Without adequate reforms put in place, no practices, however good and astutely followed they are, will survive the storm of time. Of course, for a period of time, such suppressive and forcefully submissive choices enforced on people will run. But the efficacy and reliability and divinity of such practices will remain questioned and surfaced blowing the lid of discontent. In a democracy, the constitutional values need to be upheld as supreme while respect for individual choices is upheld. When individual choices are being caricatured as the maxim and if they bring collective negative repercussions while the orthodox taking center stage in retaliation, there needs to come reforms for the collective good. Religions, not open to reforms and inefficient to change as per the demand of time, remain obsolete and disturbing irrationally inviting distress in the amiability of every society.

The feminine, being susceptible to such dominance remains a pitiable reality. Women across the globe are frequently forcefully pressed to silence and to what we call a family, a minute segment of the society itself, is an example for such dominance and suppression. Starting from an innocent scratch of a male toddler in the school, to the one blow she received at the face from a belligerent husband, a woman seems to be too self-oriented to be tortured. Facing an acid attack in the street to a torture inside the confinement of a home, she is made to suffer. Considered as an object of pleasure for men, religions gleefully grant authority to them accentuating their power and ensure the subservience of women to the maximum.

Masih Alinejad, the renowned Iranian journalist is a living example to what she calls a fight against the acrimony of the religious patriarchal establishment. She, being freed herself from the veil, had to flee from her homeland and take asylum elsewhere. Her "My Stealthy Freedom" is a social media movement that attracted thousands of veiled lives. Every woman for that matter, is a silent rebellion boiling inside the four walls of the patriarchy. With more than a million followers in Facebook, world across, she raises questions on the unscrupulous and irrationally justified religious male dominance. The days to come might witness a volcanic eruption of the feminine anger against the male infringement. Legitimizing the subordination of women in the name of religion is tantamount to disrespect the constitutional values of a democracy, which is also a challenge that is thrown in advance to check the reactions. The essential point is, when personal choice and freedom are being debated at length, voices against the extent to which religions curtail the very idea of freedom for women is not heard. The silence is thickly blanketing the animosity on women, deliberately diverting the subject of discourse in the name of religious freedom. The verdict on Lucy Kalappura, a Kerala nun on being sexually harassed multiple times by a clergy found no justice for the feminine in her. As an endorsement of vote bank politics, the ruling establishment in the state is blamed to have manipulated the issue to such a level that the angel of God had to desperately sit back and shed tears. Traditions in India mostly propagated the idea of reverence for women. With a large number of scholars being women, Vedic debates were a usual affair in the ancient education system. From house makers to scholars to rulers, the Indian society for generations flourished with women contributing for the society. The Manusmriti the Dharma sastra as ordained by the first law giver Manu, gives accounts of how feminine gender needs to be helped and respected. As the text advocates that a girl, in her childhood should be protected by her father. In her younger days, according to the text, she is supposed to be taken care of by her husband and she, no doubt, should be protected by her children in old age. This idea of protection offered by the men according to the text, does not necessarily qualify the term male dominance. Ambiguity to what it is interpreted as should not be sidelined. Indeed, it is debatable as to what extent, in which, such versus are manipulated and enforced on the women by a male supremacy. Another verse of the same text gives a profound meaning of respect and admiration for the feminine. The verse "Yatra Naryastu Pujyante Ramante Tatra Devata" is the best of accolades that a religious text can offer to the women in a society. Which tells 'where women are honored, there the deities are pleased.'

In essence and practice, it is necessary for everybody in the discourse to sit and amicably debate on the unfathomability of the hypocrisy involved while fixing narratives. Taking the issue of women rights from multiple angles, it is the women of the country, who should fearlessly stand up and set narratives. To come out or remain in the veil is their right, but to play into the hands of the hypocrisy of the patriarchy, should be taken with sensibility and courage. Lives of women like Masih Alinejad set an example for such a discourse.

Bad loans of Indian Banks leapfrogged in last seven years

Business-political nexus may be behind rising bank fraud

By: Nantoo Banerjee

Business is rarely risk free. So are bank loans. There is nothing unusual about non-performing loans or assets. They exist in every economy. But, when business promoters collude with bank management to manipulate loans in their personal favour, they become a matter of serious concern. And, this seems to have become a growing trend in India. The latest report on the promoters of a Gujarat-based ship construction firm, ABG Shipyard, defrauding a consortium of 28 banks and financial institutions to the tune of Rs.22,842 crore should be a cause of worry as the forensic audit by Ernst and Young (EY) consultancy revealed that between 2012 and 2017, the promoters colluded together to illegally divert and misappropriate large funds in criminal breach of trust.

The loan account was declared as 'non-performing asset' (NPA) in July 2016 and 'fraud' in 2019. The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) has registered an FIR against ABG Shipyard Ltd and its directors, including chairman and managing director Rishi Kamlesh Agarwal, in what could be the biggest bank fraud case in the country's history. Unfortunately, the authorities, including the banking regulator Reserve Bank (RBI), the government and banks, do not seem to be enough concerned.

Between 2014 and 2020, an RBI data analysis would show the total burden of non-performing loans on banks was nearly 365 percent more than the amount during the previous six years of the United Progressive Alliance (UPA) rule. A scrutiny of banking data since 2008 would show the massive amount of bad loans being written off in recent years. RBI put the new gross NPAs of public sector banks (PSBs) from 2014-15 to 2019-20 at nearly Rs.18.28 lakh crore, up from around Rs.5 lakh crore from 2008-09 to 2013-14.

PSBs wrote off bad loans worth Rs.6,83,388 crore during 2014-20. It was a massive write-off if compared with the 2008-14 gross amount of Rs.32,109 crore. Usually, banks write off non-performing loans which are over four-year-old as part of their exercise to clean up balance-sheet. "As borrowers of written-off loans continue to be liable for repayment and the process of recovery of dues in written-off loan accounts continues, write-off does not benefit the borrower," NDA Minister Anurag

Thakur told Parliament in 2019.

India ranks quite high in the list of major economies such as the US, China, Japan, France, Germany, the UK, Israel, Spain, the Netherlands, Canada, Sweden, Australia, Denmark, Indonesia and Malaysia, among others, in terms of bank NPAs. According to a Global Economy study based on World Bank data of non-performing loans as percentage of bank loans in 102 countries in 2020, India's was recorded at eight percent. However, RBI has lately forecast that the rate of banks' bad loans will increase to 9.8 percent by March 2022 under the baseline scenario and to 11.22 percent under a severe stress scenario.

The forecast is quite alarming compared with the Global Economy-listed figures of countries such as China (1.84 percent), Malaysia (1.57 percent), Indonesia (2.75 percent), Australia (1.11 percent), the UK (1.22 percent), Israel (1.48 percent), Canada (0.53 percent), Sweden (0.51 percent) and the USA (1.07 percent). In 2017, the NDA government promulgated an ordinance to amend the Banking Act, which was subsequently passed by Parliament, giving RBI more powers to tackle the problem of Indian banks clogged under the burden of Rs.9.64 trillion of NPAs. However, the problem persists as the latest RBI forecast suggests.

Little is reported officially about the role of India's large business houses in big bank frauds and continuously growing NPAs. This is despite the fact that an overwhelming percentage of bad loans are on account of big business borrowers. While genuine and small defaulters are punished regularly, bullied by bank-engaged private musclemen or bouncers for loan recovery and their personal assets are seized, big business defaulters often go scot free. Many take shelter outside the country. Three years ago, this government asked banks to provide passport details of people associated with soiled loans of more than Rs.50 crore.

According to CBI, most ABG Shipyard loans were given by banks between 2005 and 2012. SBI said the company's account turned NPA on November 30, 2013. The account was restructured in 2014. But, its operations could not be revived. Obviously, the lenders failed to properly assess the chances of revival before agreeing to the loan restructure. Who were the assessors? Did they act under political or other external pressure? Why fresh look out notices against the fraud stars now? During the financial year 2019-20, the lender banks declared the ABG Shipyard account as 'fraud'. Why did it take this long for CBI to file FIR against the directors of ABG Shipyard and ABG International Private Limited? What prevented the arrest of the offenders?

Interestingly, many of the big bank defaulters are NRIs though they live mostly on India-based business operations. A good number of them have multiple passports and residences in tax havens. The law and the legal system seem to be soft on them in India compared to those in North America, Europe and Asia. Imagine big-time fraud star Diamantaire Mehul Choksi has been happily hiding in Antigua and Barbuda since 2018 after leaving India! Nirav Modi, nephew of Mehul Choksi, continues to cool his heels in a UK jail as he is afraid of poor conditions of Indian jails.

Nirav Modi is accused of an alleged involvement in the Rs.14,000-crore bank fraud case. NRI businessman Vijay Mallya, a big bank fraud accused in India, has been living in the UK ever since he managed to leave the country on March 2, 2016. Banks are still anxiously awaiting Mallya's extradition with the hope that the money they lent to the former Kingfisher boss will be returned to them. Mallya was a former Congress-Janata Dal (Secular)-BJP supported independent Rajya Sabha MP for two terms. In advanced countries, bank fraud is regarded as a felony. In the US, conviction for bank fraud carries imprisonment of upto 30 years and/or a fine of upto $1 million.

Many feel collusion among top bank officials, powerful political bosses and rampant nepotism has allowed big business to loot India's banking system. According to a list compiled by All India Bank Employees Association, the largest body of bank employees, 17 public sector banks had, as on September 30, 2019, a total of 2,426 wilful-defaulter loan accounts worth Rs.1.5 lakh crore. Those wilful defaulters included ABG Shipyard, Kingfisher Airlines, Rotomac, Nakshatra Brands, Amtek Auto, Diamond Power Infrastructure, Siddhi Vinayak Logistics, Deccan Chronicle Holdings, Ashapura Garments, Electrothem India, Nakoda, VMC Systems, Varun Industries, Zoom Developers, among several others. These are accounts where borrowers are not willing to pay despite their having a repayment capacity to a substantial extent. Hence, an element of criminality undoubtedly exists. After all, banks are dealing with public money. (IPA Service)

Biological E's Covid-19 Vaccine Corbevax Gets Emergency Use Approval for Children Aged 12-18

Agency
New Delhi, Feb 22:

Hyderabad-based pharmaceutical company Biological E Ltd on Monday said its coronavirus vaccine Corbevax, also India's third homegrown vaccine, has received an emergency use approval in India for use in children aged 12 to 18 years.

The approval is likely to significantly ramp up the government's ongoing drive to vaccinate children between 15 and 18 years of age, and later for those between 12 and 14 years of age.

It comes at a time when schools across the country are opening up as Covid cases are witnessing a considerable decline.

"With this approval, we are closer to finishing our global fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. Once fully vaccinated, children can resume their activities and educational pursuits in schools and colleges without any apprehension," said Mahima Dada, Managing Director, Biological E, Limited.

Biological E had sought the emergency use authorisation of Corbevax on February 13. The expert panel of India's central drug authority had later recommended granting restricted Emergency Use Authorisation (EUA) to Biological E's vaccine. The recommendation was sent to the Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI) for final approval.

Corbevax is India's first indigenously developed RBD protein sub-unit vaccine against Covid-19. The Drugs Controller General of India had approved the vaccine for restricted use in adults on December 28, but it was incorporated in the country's vaccine drive.

In a statement, the pharmaceutical company said that it initiated the clinical study in October 2021 and evaluated the available safety and immunogenicity results of the ongoing phase 1/11 study, which indicated that the vaccine is safe and immunogenic.

Corbevax is India's first indigenously developed RBD protein sub-unit vaccine against Covid-19. The Drugs Controller General of India had approved the vaccine for restricted use in adults on December 28, but it was incorporated in the country's vaccine drive.

India's Naval Might in Full Display at President Kovind's Fleet Review

By Raju Vernekar
Mumbai, Feb 22:

President Ram Nath Kovind conducted the review of the Indian Navy's fleet (PFR-2022) off the Visakhapatnam coast in the Bay of Bengal in which India's maritime defence might was on full display on Monday.

Sailing on the indigenously designed Naval Offshore Patrol Vessel INS Sumitra, designated as the Presidential Yacht, Kovind sailed past 44 ships anchored in four columns in the Bay of Bengal and received the ceremonial salute from each of them. The theme of the President's Fleet Review-2022 was Indian Navy 75 years in Service of the Nation', commemorating the Azaadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav (75 years of Independence), an Indian Navy release stated.

The crew of each ship presented a salute with the traditional 'Three Jais', a symbolic act called "Man and Cheer Ship," in a demonstration of the unconditional allegiance of Navy personnel to the country and the Supreme Commander.

The President was accompanied by First Lady Savita Kovind, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Minister of State for Defence Ajay Bhat, Andhra Pradesh Governor

Biswabhusan Harichandan, Chief of Defence Staff General M M Naravane, Chief of Naval Staff Admiral R Hari Kumar, Flag Officer Commanding-in-Chief of Eastern Naval Command (ENC) Vice-Admiral Biswajit Dasgupta and other officials on board the Presidential Yacht.

Along with the ships, there was a Parade of Sails, comprising two Laser Bahia, six Enterprise Class, and six Indian Naval Sailing Vessels Mbadei, Tarini, Bulbul, Hariyal, Kadulpura, and Neelkanth. Rescue divers conducted "combat jumps" from the Advanced Light Helicopter (ALH) Mk-1, demonstrating a quick rescue using a Rescue Basket. The President also reviewed the mobile submarine column that included INS Vela, a recently-inducted Made in India Kalvari class submarine.

The ALH from the Indian Naval Air Squadron (INAS) 322 in Kochi, are known as the "Guardians", used in disaster relief, humanitarian aid, and rescue operations. Two Hawks from the INAS 551, known as "Phantoms", performed tactical manoeuvres in Viper formation, while Naval aircraft, including Chetak, Dhruv, Seaking, and Dornier, conducted a composite fly-past.

Marine Commandos (Marcos) from the Special Operations unit INS Karma on the eastern seaboard, performed combat free-fall water jumps from the Para Dornier aircraft over a designated drop zone from a height of 6,000 feet. Displaying immaculate skill, the Marcos completed precise landings in a sequence in close proximity to the Presidential Yacht. On completion of the review, the President returned to base with ceremonial piping of the side, followed by a 21 Gun Salute.

On the occasion, the President said that India believes in 'Security and Growth for All in the Region' to focus on cooperative measures for sustainable use of oceans. He said that a large part of global trade flows through the Indian Ocean Region (IOR). Safety of the seas and of the maritime commons, therefore, remains a critical requirement.

The President noted that during the Covid-19 pandemic, the Indian Navy has been providing aid to friendly nations by supplying medicines and evacuating stranded Indian citizens and foreign nationals in different parts of the world under 'Mission SAGAR' and 'Samudra Setu'. The effective deployment of the Indian Navy in times of crisis has underscored India's vision of being the 'Preferred Security Partner' and 'First Responder' in the IOR.

The headquarters of the ENC of the Indian Navy located at Vizag had made a glorious contribution during the 1971 Indo-Park war. The ENC was instrumental in the naval blockade of the then East Pakistan and the sinking of Pakistan's submarine 'Ghazi'. It was a decisive blow to Pakistan and the 1971 war remains one of the most emphatic victories in our history, he added.

He noted that about 70 per cent of the contents of several warships and submarines under construction in various public and private shipyards across the country are indigenous. Soon indigenously built aircraft carrier, 'Vikrant' will join the service. This is an impressive contribution to the making of an 'Atmanirbhar Bharat' (self-reliant India).

As the Supreme Commander of the Armed Forces, every President of India reviews the Indian Naval Fleet once during his five-year tenure and PFR-22 was the 12th edition. The PFR is aimed at assuring the country of the Indian Navy's preparedness, high morale, and discipline.

This was the second time that Visakhapatnam hosted the PFR, the first being in the year 2006 by the then President of India APJ Abdul Kalam. In 2016, the then President Pranab Mukherjee inspected the International Fleet Review in Visakhapatnam, popularly called the City of Destiny.

Former world medallist Sarjubala set for pro debut on February 26

Agency
New Delhi, Feb 22:

Former world championships silver-medallist Sarjubala Devi is all set to make her debut in the professional circuit on February 26, when she will take on Tanzania's Kayage Lulu Gaihaba in a 51kg category showdown in Dubai.

The diminutive former youth world champion is registered with the Indian Boxing Council. The 31-year-old Kayage has seven wins against six losses in her professional career.

"I have been training really well. Although it is the same sport, there is a lot of difference in amateur and professional boxing. I used to box three rounds earlier, now it is going to be six rounds, so I am preparing myself for it," the Manipuri pugilist, who was also a multiple-time national medallist during her amateur days, said in a statement.

"It is not just skills; it is a lot more than that. Since the bouts are longer with more rounds, endurance is a big requirement.

"Apart from the regular gym workouts, I am also going for long runs with my trainers, so that I have the endurance for Pro fights. It is exhaustive, but I am enjoying it," she added.

The 28-year-old also hoped that amateur boxers find more support for turning professional from the Boxing Federation of India.

"As per the rules, only the number one boxer in each category in the country gets to represent the country at international tournaments. When the top boxer plays the international tournament, the second and third-ranked players don't get an opportunity to play.

"I feel the Boxing Federation of India should allow amateur boxers to fight Pro bouts when they are not representing the country. This will help them stay fit for international exposure and at the same time earn some, as most of the boxers in India come from humble backgrounds," she said.

Apart from Sarjubala's professional debut, the evening in Dubai will also feature India versus Pakistan fights.

Promoter Mujtaba Kamal feels the cards have the potential to be a big hit in the Pro boxing scene.

The fight card features three current WBC India number one boxers in their respective weight divisions — Faizan Anwar (WBC India Rank 1, Welter Weight), Lalrinsanga Tlau (WBC Youth World Champion & WBC India Rank 1, Super Featherweight), Nutlail Lalbiakima (WBC India Rank 1, Minimum Weight).

The promoter said the bouts will offer handsome purses to the boxers.

"It is first-of-its-kind money for Indian and Pakistani boxers.

On an average, the boxers are going to take USD 2500-USD 3000 after the bout. Also, we have made the fights live on pay-per-view.

"Each boxer will get around 7-10 per cent from the subscription amount. This has never happened in the history of Indian and Pakistan Pro boxing," he said.
